

Instructions for Using the New York Times Online

In Library Access

Click on the In Library link next to the New York Times Online listing on the Library's databases webpage, <http://santaclaraca.gov/government/departments/library/research-resources/electronic-resources/a-z-listing-of-databases> .

If you are a new user, click on Log In on the New York Times home page. Create an account using your e-mail address and a password.

If you already have a New York Times account, log in with your e-mail address and password.

You now have unlimited access to read the New York Times Online from within the library.

Home Access

For access to the New York Times Online from home or beyond the library, click on the Home Access link next to the New York Times Online listing on the Library's databases webpage, <http://santaclaraca.gov/government/departments/library/research-resources/electronic-resources/a-z-listing-of-databases> .

Click on the Redeem link to redeem your access code.

If you are a new user, create a New York Times account using your e-mail address and a password.

If you already have a New York Times account, log in with your e-mail address and password.

You now have access to read the New York Times Online for the next 72 hours from beyond the library.